HI GANG!

In these days of cold autumn winds, mists and dark evenings, there really is nothing better than curling up in the warm with your very own favourite Get Along Gang comic. Read all about our exciting and often hilarious adventures! Catchum's up to his slippery tricks again this week – so watch out!

GANG PROJECT

The fallen leaves are causing a lot of trouble in Green Meadow this week – so the gang offer to help and clear them up. This is only the start of autumn and as the leaves pile up perhaps your gang could help someone too. Many elderly people dread this time of year because wet leaves can be slippery and dangerous. Your gang could be of real help to someone by clearing paths!

Would you like a birthday request in your favourite comic? Simply send your name, the date of your birthday and how old you'll be on a postcard, no later than 7 weeks in advance, to: BIRTHDAY REQUESTS, Get Along Gang, Marvel Comics, 23, Redan Place, London W2 4SA.

Next week: The gang join Green Meadow's equivalent of the Cubs and Brownies but it leads to a whole pack of trouble!

LEAF IT TO THE GANG!

It's autumn and the gang are helping to clear away all the leaves that have fallen in Green Meadow. Naughty Catchum has climbed a tree and is shaking more down. There are leaves everywhere! Colour them all in. Use autumn colours like orange, brown and yellow. Can you count how many leaves the gang have got to pick up?

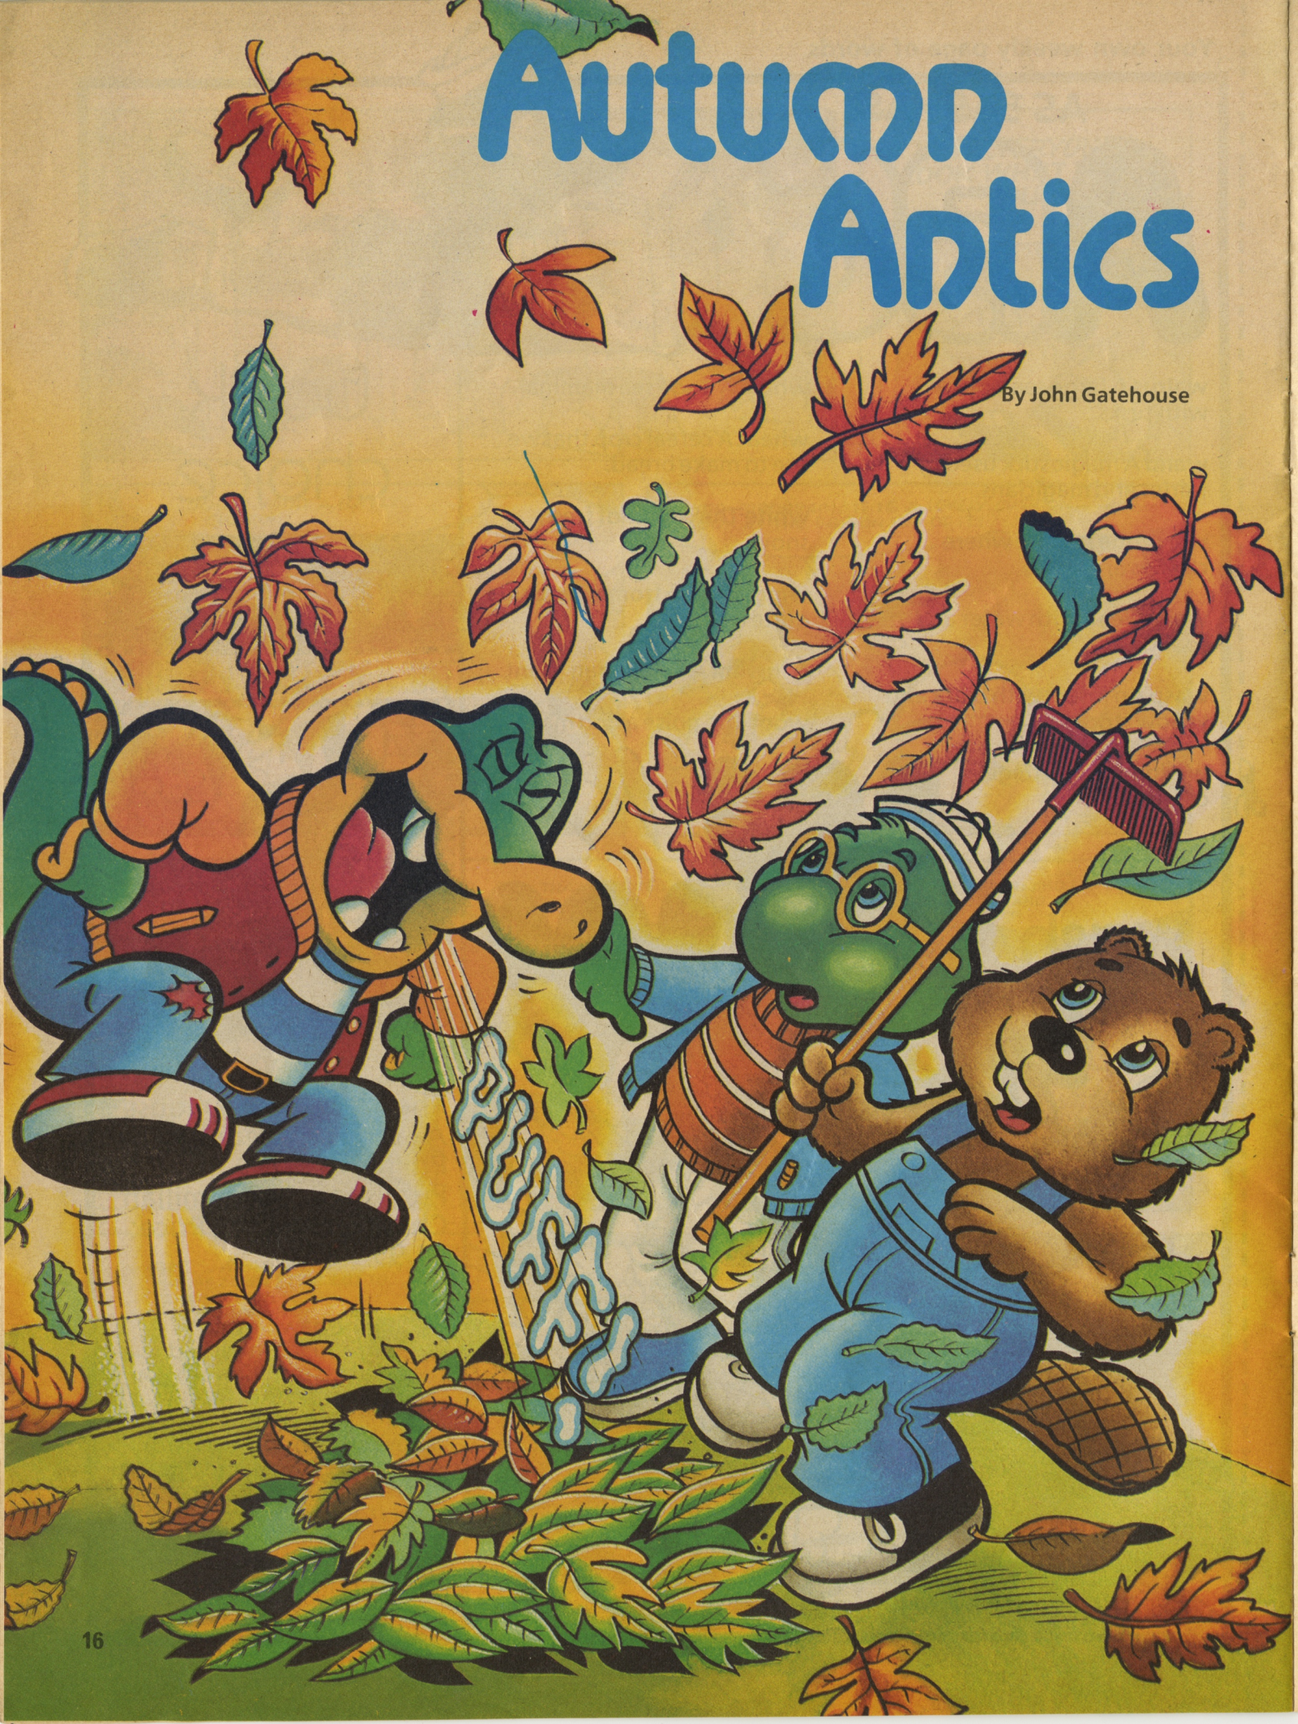
Autumn Antics

By John Gatehouse



"Autumn is such a bother!" frowned the Mayor as he looked at the leaf-covered streets of Green Meadow. "The old folk are always slipping on the leaves, especially since we had that rainshower."

Braker Turtle was cycling past and overheard this. "Excuse me, sir," he said politely, stopping his bike beside the Mayor. "I'm sure the Get Along Gang will be glad to clear away the leaves for you."

The Mayor's face lit up at this. "Marvellous!" he beamed. "You'll be doing everyone a big favour."

Braker felt proud. For once he had decided on what to do instead of putting the brakes on a new idea, which is what he usually did.

"The others will be happy to help," he thought as he cycled towards the Clubhouse Caboose.

"I'M NOT SWEEPING UP DIRTY LEAVES!" bellowed Woolma, angrily stamping her feet. "They'll be full of creepy-crawlies! Anyway, I'm going to a party this afternoon and I'm not going to dirty my pretty dress by helping you!"

Braker sighed as Woolma stormed out of the Caboose.

"I can't help either," Zipper said, somewhat embarrassed. "I have a race at the sport's track. Maybe afterwards . . . but I'll probably be too tired."

Lolly, Rocco and Flora had all said they would love to help . . . but first they wanted to sail their yachts in the park pond.

"I wish Montgomery or Dotty were here," a disappointed Braker told Bingo.

Bingo felt sorry for his friend. "I'll help you clean up the leaves," he said.

'"Really?" Braker cheered up. "You are a pal!

Catchum and Leland scuffled their feet through the leaves as they walked along the street. "I like autumn," chuckled Catchum. "It's fun watching others slip up on wet leaves!"

"And stuffing wet leaves down the other kid's collars!" laughed Leland as he picked up a handful of leaves and threw them into the air. "Everywhere looks messy – it's great!"

Suddenly Leland stopped in his tracks. "Hey! They can't do that!" he frowned as he watched Braker and Bingo raking up all the leaves into a big pile. "If they clean up the leaves we won't be able to have our fun!"

"Right!" sniggered Catchum. "So we'll have to stop them, won't we?"

"CATCHUM! What do you want?" Bingo glared suspiciously at Catchum as he and Leland approached the pile of leaves. Catchum grinned and took a deep breath. PUUUUUUFFFF! He blew with all his strength and the leaves were blown higgledy-piggledy along the street.

"WAAAAAH!" cried Braker as he looked at the untidy street. "You rotter! It's taken us all morning to clean up these leaves!"

"Well, blow me down!" cackled Catchum. "You'll have to start again! HAR! HAR!"

Catchum and Leland walked off, laughing merrily, kicking the leaves all over the place.

"This is hopeless!" groaned Braker, feeling very upset.

The leaves were causing problems for the others too.

"Sorry," the race organiser shook his head as he looked at the leaves on the sport's track. "The race will have to be cancelled. It's too dangerous to run with all these wet leaves about."

Zipper did feel disappointed. "If I had only bothered to help Braker clean up the leaves I could still have had my race. I'll go and help him now."

Woolma was running towards her house to get ready for the party when she slipped on a patch of wet leaves. "WHOOOOPS!" she cried as she landed SPLAT in a dirty rain-puddle.

"Oh, no! My party dress is ruined!" she wailed as she looked down at the muddy dress. "All because of these stupid leaves! Someone should clean them up!" She stopped as she realised what she had said. "And that someone should have been me! I was too busy thinking of myself to care."

"We can't sail our yachts in this pond," frowned Rocco. "It's clogged up with leaves." It was true. The park pond was so full of leaves the friends could not see the water.

"Come on," said Flora. "It's about time we acted like a Gang again."

Braker was pleased when the others arrived to help. "We'll soon have Green Meadow cleaned up now!" he grinned.

While Braker swept the girls raked and the other boys put the leaves into sacks. "Yes, we'll soon be finished if we work together." agreed Rocco.

"We've got trouble," Flora whispered. She had seen Catchum and Leland watching from behind a tree.

"Don't worry," smiled Zipper. "Just rake the leaves into a giant pile. I've got an idea!"

"Come on! They've gone!" cheered Catchum as he ran towards the huge mountain of leaves. "I saw the Gang go off towards Mr Hoofnagel's shop. Now we can scatter the leaves around."

"Won't they be surprised to find Green Meadow all messy again!" giggled Leland.

Catchum leapt into the pile of leaves.

"WAHEY!" Leland shouted as he copied his friend. WHUMP!

The two boys collided with Officer Growler who was standing behind the leaves.

"WHAT DO YOU THINK YOU'RE DOING?!" Officer Growler exploded as he looked down at the startled Catchum and Leland.

"GULP!" Catchum swallowed hard. "Now we're for it!"

The Gang laughed as they watched Officer Growler making Catchum and Leland sweep up all the leaves in Green Meadow.

"I'm glad I asked Officer Growler to guard our leaves," smiled Zipper. "I thought Catchum would try something like that!"

"Yes," chuckled Braker as the friends headed back to Mr Hoofnagel's. "I think we'll LEAF them to it! Ha! Ha!"

TO THE CLUBHOUSE!

DOTTY DOG!

Dear Montgomery,
I buy your comic every Saturday. It is really nice. I have the whole miniature Get Along Gang. My favourites are Zipper, Woolma, Braker Turtle and Dotty Dog. Could you tell me what Dotty Dog does in her spare time?

Kate.

She takes her duties as Gang Cheerleader very seriously and practises a lot, but she has so much energy that she's always busy. Dotty often says "Do as many fun things as you can today. That way, if you like 'em, you can do 'em again tomorrow."

WHO'S NOT ON TIME!

Dear Montgomery,
Have any of the Get Along Gang ever been late for clubhouse meetings?

Karen Burnley.

Bingo "Bet-It-All" Beaver is always late for meetings!

JOKERS GALORE!

Why don't cats shave?
Because eight out of ten of them prefer whiskers!

Lisa Barton.

What's Catchum's favourite game?
Snap!

Andrew Duncan.

'What's the fastest vegetable?
A Runner Bean!

Julie Bonner.

What do you get if you cross a steam-roller with a tape-meausre?
Flat feet!

Michael Wood.

KITTEN

Dear Montgomery,
I am six years old and I have video taped the Get Along Gang tv programmes. I have got a kitten and when I put the video on she watches out for Zipper Cat. My kitten is called Twinkle. We found her abandoned at a pond. She is white, brown and black!
